Matters in Greece have reached such a climax that the Sublime Porte has found it necessary to address a note to the Great Powers protesting against the evident warlike intentions of the Greek Government It is alleged that an army of 40 000 men with a reserve of 3 000 has been raised and that the unusual loan just ordered is for aggressive military purposes This statement however is intended as an offset to the protest of Greece against the alleged fomenting of troubles in Thessaly and Epirus by Turkish emissaries The whole dispute while it does not indicate any immediate serious consequences is one of the most refractory of the troubles which remain since the so-called settlement of the Eastern question

The Hungarians have struck their first blow at Count Andrassy with overwhelming effect It is true that the Emperor has not accepted the Premier Minister's offered resignation and that he has himself volunteered to withdraw it if his stipulations are complied with but when such a man as Herr Von Stoll confessedly one of the first financiers in Europe elects to resign his post rather than to accept the responsibility of contributing to the expenses of holding Bosnia after the 1st of November there can be but one opinion as to the gravity of the crisis Indeed, the present position of Hungary and her influence upon Austria form a phenomenon which has no parallel in history He would be a bold man who should prophecy that within a few years from this time, the few surviving Polish insurgents of 1863 would control every measure of Russia's policy, and check her career of annexation by the mere terror of their displeasure. But even this would be not a whit more startling than the absolute control now exercised by the hunted outlaws of 1848 over the Government which proscribed and the nation which exiled them When a minority of Austria's own subjects can thus bend her to their will, her internal weakness requires no further demonstration

Before the Princess Louise knew that she was coming to Canada she commissioned Mr E W Godwin, a distinguished English architect, to build her a studio in Kensington It is now half-finished and the Princess has ordered its immediate completion, declaring her intention to use it on her return to England This amiable lady's popularity among all classes in England is greater than that of any other member of the royal family One reason is that she meets every one who approaches her with a sweet kindness, perfect unaffected and thoroughly charming She behaves like a refined lady without the stiff hauteur of some of her royal relatives She is universally respected an admirable woman, fond of art and literature frank generous and large hearted

The Italian papers report a new phase of the Lazaretti excitement Lazaretti has announced himself as the new Messiah, and in leading his adherents on one of the towns in his district was shot dead He appeared on that occasion in a rich robe manufactured for him in France, and his followers announced that his resurrection in this robe would take place at an early day Disappointed in this particular, a successor has been announced, in the person of Salvatore Brasseschi His record as a citizen and a soldier is good, and it is believed that he has none of the mercenary motives attributed to Lazaretti After he had preached for two or three weeks he was arrested and sentenced to forty five days imprisonment as a rogue and a vagabond

The Amazon exploring expedition found at Santa em, the remains of the colony which the unpalatable Confederates in the Southern States attempted to establish in Brazil Their high spirit would not permit them to live under the old flag or in a country in which there was no slavery so they with a flourish of the trumpets and with a proper amount of defiance in their eyes, emigrated to Brazil Of the original two hundred who first located at Santarem only one remain Of the several hundred who located there in the years after the war only a few remain The colonists did not go to Brazil to work and failed to prosper Those remaining lead a monotonous existence and poverty bites them to the bone they have chosen Most of them, it is said have taken up Brazilian citizens

Cabul the present capital of Afghanistan, suffered a temporary eclipse in the middle of the last century through the rise of its southern rival Kandahar The latter founded in 1751 by Shah Ahmed the greatest of Afghan sovereigns rapidly grew in to one of the largest and most flourishing cities of the kingdom but on its founder's death in 1772, his effeminate son Timour retransferred the seat of Government to Cabul where it has remained ever since It must be owned that this dignity is fully merited Standing upon the river of the same name in the midst of a wide plain bordered by low hills and dotted with countless villages the Afghan metropolis has a striking picturesqueness of aspect heightened by the innumerable gardens which are the prominent feature of every Asiatic city from Tashkend to Damascus The houses are of wood but much neater and more commodious than is usual in Eastern towns The great bazaar and several of the public building are of essentially modern construction thanks to the partial demolition of the place by the English in October, 1842, that it possessed one splendid monument of antiquity namely the tomb of the Emperor Baber, the founder of the Mogul dynasty of India Its climate is surprisingly healthy on the whole although the great difference of temperature between day and night exposes foreigners to the risk of fever and ophthalmia from a military point of view Cabul in its position which may be compared with that of Sophia, in Western Turkey is admirable for all purposes of defense Placed at the intersection of the four great roads leading to Koondooz, Herat Peshawar and Kandahar it is protected on the north by the snows of the Hindoo koosh and on the south east by the westernmost spur of the Suleiman range while the more practicable approach from the south west is commanded by the impregnable fortress of Ghuzni the Afghan Gibraltar whose capture in 1841 was only accomplished by treachery In a word Cabul needs nothing but a more complete system of fortification to make it one of the most important places in Central Asia

LADD AT PORTLAND

[From the Boston Advertiser]

The new Democratic Greenback Representative elect from the Fourth District of Maine will make up for Butler's absence from the next Congress in one way He can blunder as badly as the Lowell statesman himself In a recent speech at Portland Dr Ladd said

A word about resumption so called Ours is a coin or inflation and will continue to be a long time Enterprise and industry of individuals and nations always represent debt Old and effete nations who exist but on the crystallized labor of the past represent the credit part of the world England, among them, could not even help us resume, when the Alabama treaty made at Geneva found we were entitled to $15 000,000 in gold What was the sequel Did we, on settlement bring $15 000 000 of metal to replenish our exhausted supply? Oh no I speak again upon the authority of him who was then Secretary of the Treasury Mr Boutwell The Government of England induced our own State Department to suggest to our Treasury Department that to bring house that award as the court had adjudged it to us in gold would produce a financial crisis, and that we should, therefore, in the same spirit of amity which had submitted to arbitration the great issues between us accept payment in our own bonds Does this look like resumption?

We are forced to confess that it does not But then it was not made up to look like resumption The event took place in September, 1873 when we were not even trying to resume But that is not the point No such representations were made and Mr Boutwell was not Secretary of the Treasury at the time He had resigned on the 17th of March, nearly six months before It would have been absurd to send gold to this country to pay the award, when gold was going the other way to pay for excessive importations The form of payment was merely then the sensible way of doing the thing but it would be out of place question now If payment of such a sum were to be made Great Britain could not find the bonds so cheaply as she could send us the gold That does look like resumption, as far as it has any reference to the matter

The Bank of Commerce of New York has brought suit to recover $450 000 of the Directors of the Bank of Missouri which closed some time ago The money was borrowed to loan to the directors and it is alleged that the Bank of Commerce was aware of this fraudulent proceeding

The London Financier estimates that the shareholders of the Glasgow Bank must meet a deficit of $20,000,000.

A business block in Pensacola was burned Thursday night; Loss $50,000; insured $35,000.

FOURTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

TESTIMONY FOR THE DEFENCE.

Conclusion of the Government's Evidence.

BOSTON, Oct. 1. In the Hart murder trial this forenoon a witness testified that at the time of the Moserve house on the day of the discovery of the murder he saw Hart and asked him who first put them upon the house and Hart said: "I guess I've been putting Moserve up all winter to have that flambed tomb opened." Witness asked why he called it a tomb and Hart replied because I knew she was dead in it."

The Defence.

The Government stopped here and the defence opened by R. Dunton, junior counsel. Frank A. Sylvester, Hart's step father, testified that the prisoner was at home the evening of Dec. 22d, when the murder is supposed to have been committed, from about 9 until witness retired. On cross examination witness said she testified at the request that she was not at home the evening but since remembered she was on being reminded by Mrs. Hart that she called at Hart's that evening.

Mrs. Walcott testified that she called at Hart's a little after 8 that evening and saw Hart and his step daughter talking in the room. The wife of the prisoner testified that her husband was at the house that evening. At the inquest she testified that she was at home but did not know that her husband was at home. She afterwards remembered that he was at home upon Mrs. Whitehouse telling her that she Whitehouse was at her house that evening. She did not remember ever telling the prisoner (her husband) that he had better, mind or he would get his face stuck and his shirt bosom torn out again.

The prisoner's wife on cross examination testified that she stated at the inquest that her husband was out until 8 o'clock on Saturday evening Dec. 22d; that she did not go home with him that evening if he would wait and he did not wait. She then thought she was telling the honest truth, but changed her recollection after being reminded by Mrs. Whitehouse of her. Mrs. Dow says it was Friday evening her husband was out. Did not think she told her husband wore slippers on Christmas Monday evening; has a corn on his feet and is in the habit of wearing slippers out of doors.

Mrs. Louisa Wall, prisoner's daughter, resided in the village Saturday evening, Dec. 22d. Did not see her father that night. Isaac was at Vimal Wall's the night of the 29th of January when he came from Hart's. Vimal spoke of hearing of a bundle of brown paper, but did not mention Nathan Hart or anything about a cord around the neck of the deceased.

A. R. Dunton testified (as a hand-writing expert) that he examined the anonymous papers and logbook; that the brown paper anonymous letters were by the same hand that wrote the first five pages of the book number one, which pages were admitted to be the hand writing of A. K. Moserve. On cross examination he admitted that he had told the papers the first week in March to the Court, or sooner.—Witness saw the Attorney General after he had had the papers several days, he might have thought it was Hart's. He admitted the letters and first pages of the log book were written by the same person. He discovered more than one hand writing in the books. Witness admitted that the original letter to Sheriff Lowe, of March 6th, about Hart—"One thing is sure, he wrote the writing on the brown and blue paper, he kept the log books and wrote the letters submitted as standards." He expressed the same opinion as late as July or August; but with the understanding that the first pages of the log book were Hart's hand writing. Witness admitted having certain pages out of the log book cut out by order of the County Attorney.

MARINE DISASTERS.

NEW YARD HAVEN, Oct. 4. The schooners S. Rockhill, of Bangor, Booker, from Rockhaven for Portsmouth, with a cargo of coal, and the schooner N. H. Skinner, of Lubeck, from Gardiner for Washington, collided off Cape Cod at 1 o'clock a.m. Tuesday, carrying away the Rockhill's foremast and head gear, and also her bow to the water's edge from knightheads to forerigging. The Skinner took the Rockhill in tow and made an effort to reach this port, but the wind freshened, and when about two miles from the Handkerchief lightship, the Rockhill was abandoned and sunk. Her sails and boat were saved and brought to this port with the crew. The captain and crew left here in the steamer Martha's Vineyard this morning for Boston. The Skinner was not injured.

CARDENAS, Oct. 4. The schooner Florence Nightingale, Capt. Marion Drinkwater, with molasses and hay, from Rockport for Charlestown, a few hours out put in here, the lime taking fire. The vessel will probably be scuttled.

FROM CAMDEN.

Being Crossed in Love he Commits Suicide.

CAMDEN, Oct. 4. The dead body of Charles E. Quimby, aged twenty-seven years, son of Rev. Dr. Quimby, of Augusta, editor of the Gospel Banner, was found this morning in a camp on the side of Mt. Batty. A bottle of morphine and a bottle of laudanum were found on a table. The coroner's inquest decided it a case of suicide. He has been boarding in Camden some weeks and had not been seen since Tuesday morning. His suicide was somewhat expected, as he has been disappointed in love. His autobiography is written in a book entitled, "A Woman's Wiles," though really dedicated to him, published by Carlton & Co., New York. He was an exemplary young man and able and vivid writer to many journals, and once an editor on a Portland Sunday paper. His career has been truly romantic it is said.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

THE INDIANS.

The Trouble in Colorado.

DENVER, Oct. 4. It is reported that the soldiers and citizens reached the Indians early yesterday morning at North Beaver Creek. In the fight Lt. Broderick was badly wounded and six men killed. There is a deep feeling in Denver regarding these outrages. A council of war was held in Senator Chaffee's rooms. It is probable that the entire State militia will be ordered out. They can take the field at an hour's notice.

Murdering Whites.

The following despatch from Wallace, Neb., referring to a band of Indians, which left the reservation near Fort Reno, has just been received:

"Indians crossed the Kansas Pacific Railroad Sunday morning going north.—When about 25 miles north of Buffalo station they commenced killing settlers, and so far 17 dead bodies had been found along Sappa Creek. The Indians do not go out of their way at all to kill white people, but if they meet a man on horseback they kill him and take his horse. They are now 80 or 100 miles from the Kansas with troops pressing them pretty hard. They have killed no women nor children and have not thus far mutilated the bodies of their victims. The report that Lt. Broderick is killed is untrue. There has been no fight since Friday and Broderick is here well and hearty.

After the Hostile Cheyennes.

SIDNEY, Neb., Oct. 4. Major Thornburgh with about 200 men, left here on a special train this afternoon for Ogallalla to endeavor to stop the hostile Cheyennes.—He will be joined at Julesburg by Lt. Davis and a command from South Platte. The Cheyenne prisoners, about 250 persons, including 75 warrior, enroute for Indian Territory, who were held at this place until the renegades had passed, were disarmed this forenoon, and are now in camp at Sidney barracks, guarded by Capt. Fitzgerald's company. The Indians first refused to surrender and trouble was anticipated, but when the troops surrounded them they gave up their rifles and pouches submitting to overwhelming numbers.

A Sharp Race.

CAMP ROBINSON, Neb., Oct. 4. The five companies of the third cavalary, commanded by Col. Carlton, which arrived here some days ago broke up camp at 9 o'clock last night to make a high march and intercept the Indians if possible before arriving at a point north of Clark's bridge on the Sidney road. It will appear by latest information and other corroborative proof that the hostile party, now being pursued by the troops, are endeavoring to reach the New Red Cloud agency on Wolf Creek, 57 miles from Camp Robinson. They may succeed in outmarching the troops being better mounted and having nearly 300 stolen horses in reserves.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Cutting Down.

LAWRENCE, Oct. 4. The employes of the Boston & Maine Railroad shops at So. Lawrence will hereafter work nine hours per day instead of ten as heretofore. One hour's pay will also be taken off their wages.

NEW YORK CITY.

The O'Leary-Hughes Walking Match.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. At 10 a. m. O'Leary had walked 335 miles and Hughes 280. Hughes left the track last night, but returned about ten o'clock to-day and resumed his walk; but, after hobbling two laps, he again left the track. One of his knees is very stiff, and he looks dejected.

NEW YORK STATE.

An Earthquake Shock.

NEWBURG, Oct. 4. A supposed shock of earthquake occurred at 2:30 this morning. It was felt on both sides of the Hudson from West Point to Peekskill.—There was a rumbling before and after the shock, the latter being heavy enough to rattle the windows and wake people.

THE YELLOW FEVER.

Yesterday's Record.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4th. The Gretna, Howard, and V. M. C. A. visiting Commissions report the total number of destitute sixty-two hundred and eighty. To attend to these there are but three physicians, who have ninety-three patients each to visit, beside their regular practice. The disease is spreading with frightful rapidity, attacking both white and black alike.

The sub committee of the Orleans Relief Commission make an appeal to the people of the United States for means to supply the destitute with food. The committee state that they represent thirty organizations that for years have devoted themselves to doing good to their fellow men. They have united in a common effort in behalf of the destitute, and will be pleased to receive and distribute all contributions. The appeal sets forth that there are 200,000 people in New Orleans, and among them many thousands are destitute. The fear of contagion has caused the outside world to close its doors against us as against lepers. Our avenues of trade are closed, and strong then who would willing work are compelled to remain idle. The appeal concludes: "You who have already nobly responded to calls of others for relief, know only that the city is filled with the plague, its people smitten and dying; but another affliction, scarcely less to be dreaded, follows the disease into many homes, and smites the strong and well. Hunger and want claim many whom the pestilence spares. To the sick is given medicines, to the dead burial, and we appeal to the humane of our country to save from starvation those who are well."

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 4. Deaths, 7; new cases, 86.

MORGAN CITY, Oct. 4. New cases since last report, Sept. 26th, 117; total cases, 200; under treatment, 110; deaths, 60.

THIBODEAUX, Oct. 4. Seventeen new cases; 3 deaths; 2 black, one white. The fever is rapidly increasing in the parish.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 4. Owing to sickness and deaths among the attaches of the Bank of Commerce it closed its doors today. The Board of Health reports 52 deaths in the city from yellow fever during the 24 hours ending at 6 o'clock tonight.

CAIRO, Oct. 4. Two deaths and several sick with a malignant type of bilious fever.

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 4. A letter from Port Hudson states that the fever is increasing, there having been 20 deaths since the night before last.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4. The following telegrams were transmitted to-day:

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.

To the Collector of Customs, New Orleans: Report by telegram the actual condition of suffering and want from yellow fever, the extent of relief on hand and its sufficiency, nature and extent of relief indispensable. Write also fully.

(Signed) JOHN SHERMAN, Secretary.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.

Hon. John Sherman, Secretary of the Treasury, Washington:

There is more need of aid than ever. The wharves are bare, industrial enterprises closed up and nearly every laboring man out of employment. A meeting last Monday of all the charitable Associations developed the fact that with the exception of the Howard, funds are nearly exhausted. The Howards furnish no statement of funds on hand. It may not be consistent with their rules to do so. Provisions are most needed and in my opinion the Orleans Committee is best organized for such distribution. They have reported the need of sixty thousand rations in addition to what have been issued. I have no idea that will be enough. Thirty charitable associations, through a committee, have made an appeal to the country which goes over the wires to-night. I cordially endorse the representations made therein.

GEORGE L. SMITH, Collector.

GRAND JUNCTION, Oct. 4. One death and two new cases here. At Lagrange, Tenn., the yellow fever has been epidemic for about a week. There has been fifteen deaths and the number of cases now under treatment is 30. There is great suffering from the want of money and provisions.—Stricken Memphis has come nobly to the relief of the towns, sending nurses, physicians and medicines. The citizens have organized a relief committee.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES.

The farm buildings on the Frederick Eustis estate, in Milton, Mass., were burned yesterday; loss, $35,000; partially insured.

The London Times financial article says the revelation of the details of the failure of the Glasgow Bank, is accompanied with no fresh signs of disturbance in the money market and a calmer feeling prevails.

A Vienna dispatch says Andrassy goes to Pesth to arrange matters connected with the Hungarian ministerial crisis.

Work upon the thirteen new life saving stations on the coasts of Virginia and North Carolina is being pushed forward rapidly and they will be completed by the middle of the next month. Three other new stations on the Delaware and Maryland coasts will be completed some time afterwards.

Thursday morning the schooner Conquest, from Richmond to Halifax, with coal, at anchor in Hampton Roads, was run into by the Boston schooner Roger Drury. The Conquest was considerably damaged and brought to Norfolk.

Ex-President Grant has written his sister, Mrs. Corbin, that he will return to America early in May.

Fifteen hundred children were terror-stricken in a grammar school No. 17 West 47th street, New York, yesterday, by the mistaken cry of fire, but all reached the street in safety.

Condon, the released Fenian, started for Cincinnati last night by the Erie Railroad. He will return to New York to reside.

The U. S. Steamship Plymouth sailed from Portland harbor for Santa Cruz, ordered to protect American citizens there.

Charles C. Moore, from Massachusetts, was killed at Jamaica depot, L. I., yesterday, by stepping from a train.

THE WEATHER.

WAR DEPT., OFFICE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER, WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5—1 A. M.

Indications.

For New England and Middle Atlantic States: Rising barometer; North to West winds, and cooler, clear weather. The rivers will change but little.

Cautionary signals continue at Cape Henry, Kitty Hawk, Cape Hatteras and Cape Lookout.

FOREIGN NEWS.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Bank Failure.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. The Herald says: rumors are current that some of the directors of the Glasgow Bank received enormous advances out of funds they were administering. It is also reported that a large ship building firm in Glasgow has failed.

GERMANY.

Bismarck's Alternative.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. A Berlin dispatch states that Bismarck offered to the Committee on the Socialist Bill the alternative of either accepting his Bill without alteration or his resignation.

TURKEY.

Minister Layard Coming Home.

LONDON, Oct. 4. A dispatch says that Minister Layard is en route home from Constantinople, to consult with the Government.

AFGHANISTAN.

Gathering of Troops.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. A despatch from Simla says the British troops have advanced to occupy Jamroad at the north of Khyber Pass. The Ameer is making a levy and thousands are flocking to him.—The advance on Cabul will soon be made. A St. Petersburg despatch says the Russian papers are increasingly saucy relative to Afghanistan.

THE HANLON-COURTNEY RACE

A Charge that Courtney Sold Out.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4. The Telegram says a despatch received in this city this morning from a leading sporting man at Auburn is to the effect that the most intense feeling exists in that city against Courtney, as they believe he sold the race. A large number congregated at Cosgrove and Miller's place on Genessee street and it was proposed by some to drive Courtney out of town when he should return home. Many have lost heavily on Courtney, mostly merchants, who helped to subscribe funds to aid Courtney in the hope of bringing the race to Owasco Lake.

What Courtney's Judge Says of the Race—Courtney the Best Man, But—

MONTREAL, Oct. 4. Edward B. Rankin, who yesterday acted as judge for Courtney, has published a letter, in which he says:

"I venture the judgment now that Courtney is the better and more enduring sculler of the two. That despite the roughness of the water he succeeded whenever he made the effort, in closing with Hanlon, and at the finish he outrowed the Toronto man and lost the race by ceasing to pull at a critical moment, when nearing the goal.—Had he continued rowing and hauled out into the course, instead of resting on his oars, the race was his own. It seems incredible that a man of Courtney's intelligence should be so far lost to pride of country and the interests of his friends, as to lose the race intentionally, and until something definite in the nature of fairness is developed, it is only just to hope and believe that the race was lost through an error of judgment."

RUSSIA.

Another Loan.

BERLIN, Oct. 4th. The Post announces a fresh Russian loan forthcoming, for the purpose of redeeming a portion of the paper currency issued during the war.

THE WEST INDIES.

The Insurrection at Santa Cruz.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. The Government has official information relative to the existence of an insurrection at Santa Cruz, but the advices say nothing regarding the number of lives supposed to be lost.

The mob have succeeded in capturing and destroying the town of Fredericksted. There is a United States Consular Agent resident there, and it is supposed his house was destroyed with others. All the help available has been sent from St. Thomas by Danish authorities.

There is no reason known for the insurrection as it was supposed the Danish authorities had been very mild in their conduct towards the inhabitants. In addition to the Plymouth sent this afternoon from Portland to protect American citizens in Santa Cruz the Navy Department has also ordered a vessel from the West India station, the one nearest to the disturbed region, to hasten to the same mission. Christiansted, the only town on the Island in addition to Fredericksted, is well fortified and it is supposed can well stand against an attack upon it.

THE SANFORD STEAMERS. The following item written by a traveler appeared in the last issue of the Rockland Gazette: "It is certainly very gratifying to the traveling public to learn that this line of Steamers has been so very successful during the past two seasons. The steamer Cambridge is fast regaining the confidence of those who entertained a doubt, etc. I think she is a beautiful steamboat and in every way managed in first class style. The steamer Katahdin is a fine steamboat, and as far as I am able to judge, could not be managed in better style."

THE MILITARY BALL. Active preparations are now being made for the grand military ball and reception, given by the National Lancers of Boston, in this city, next Tuesday evening. The indications now are that there will be large number of the military men of the State, to whom invitations have been forwarded, in attendance in full uniform. A large number of ladies will be present, and as all will be in full dress, even though they go as spectators, it will be a very brilliant affair. The committee who have the matter in charge will have the hall decorated in military dress, and will have the floor put in excellent condition for dancing, so that there will be no dust. The Lancers will arrive in this city on Tuesday morning's train, and will be escorted to the Bangor House by the Jameson Guards, and the Bangor Band. In the afternoon the grand street parade will take place. The visitors will remain in the city until Wednesday evening.

A MODEL YOUNG LADY. An exchange says: "Boys, look out for your laurels!—A smart girl now appears upon the stage of action. A well authenticated story comes to our ears, that a young lady of this village, who is noted for her elegant attire and graceful appearance upon our streets, succeeded in cutting and making a dress after the most approved style — cross grained ruffle, with some kind of a heading up and down the front—or back, we forget which—cross wise piece around the bottom and another around the top and all the other appendages—including a patent skirt elevator—ready for immediate use, in the short space of two days, besides doing the housework for a large family, dressing the children and sending them off to school, attending to "hanging her hair" and receiving her beau in the evening. If we have not got the description of the trimmings of the dress just correct, our readers must blame our informant, as we are quite ignorant of such matters. Where is the young lady who can beat this?"

PENOBSCOT MUSICAL ASSOCIATION. Mr. Editor: The item in your columns yesterday, calling attention to the meeting of the Penobscot Musical Association next week, deserves to be commended to still more general notice. As a frequent attendant upon its rehearsals or concerts in past years, I can bear testimony to the high order of music which it cultivates, and the pleasure it affords to those who are fond of good singing. Its labors are not for the mere enjoyment of the annual meeting, but for the genuine improvement of the art, and no one can attend without recognizing the strong and helpful influence it exerts on the musical talent and culture of our city, and on the order of worship in the churches. Many of the members come from the choirs and musical societies of the towns around Bangor, and on their return carry back with them new and fresh impulses and ideas, and so this association has long been doing its quiet but useful work for both city and country. It has well earned the esteem in which it is held, and deserves to be still more largely patronized by our citizens. Allow me, as a disinterested outsider, to bespeak for its sessions a cordial welcome and a large attendance.

A CONVICT SUCCEEDS IN GETTING OUT OF THE STATE PRISON. The Rockland Gazette says: "On Thursday about 4 o'clock P. M., George Johnson, a convict at the prison, made his escape through a window at the west end of the new prison building. He had been at work in the new part for a number of days on the iron work, and had taken all opportunities when there was no officer present, to work on the iron grating of the window, succeeding in forcing one bar out far enough to enable him to crawl through. He was captured in the woods back of the Shibles lot by Mr. Wm. G. Rice about 30 minutes after he escaped. Mr. Rice marched him through the woods to the house of Harvey Maxey, where he asked for a drink of water, and after drinking, threw the dish away, running across the field towards the river. Mr. Rice ran after him. The chase became very exciting, Mr. Rice drew his revolver, and fired four times at the convict. One bullet went through his hat, another through his clothing just above the hip, and the third shot through the leg of his pantaloons. Johnson deeming these shots as rather a snug call threw up his arms and surrendered. Fortunately Johnson was not injured, but his escape was miraculous, and shows that the aim of the revolver was unerring. After his recapture he was brought back to the prison. Johnson was committed to the Maine State Prison the 10th day of last April from Sagadahoc Co. for larceny; is 23 years old; said has been a well behaved convict up to the time this affair happened."

A BOLD BEAR. Last Tuesday morning about four o'clock Mr. Martin L. Rideout, of Garland, left his house with his team to take his wife and little daughter to Corinth for them to take the stage for Bangor, leaving at home his only son, Georgie, twelve years of age. About half-past four as the boy was returning to the house from the barn he noticed some kind of an animal in the road a little distance east of the house, and a few moments of that boys experience with a bear, we give in his own language as told by him to Mr. H., a neighbor, about seven o'clock that morning: "Oh! Mr. H. as I was coming from the barn about half-past four this morning I saw an animal in the road over towards your house, and coming this way, and I stepped out from the corner of the fence," (about fifty feet from the front door of the house) "and watched it as it came along, and as soon as it saw me, it stood upon its hind feet and dropped his forepaws." Pshaw! Georgie, 'twas only Mr. R.'s dog broke in Mr. H. "Mr. R.'s dog, old Dave, was it! Do you 'spose I don't know old Dave? It just stood upon its hind feet and looked at me and I looked at the animal. Pretty soon it commenced to walk on its hind feet towards me. It was about fifteen feet off. I off with my hat, swung it and yelled. It clapped down its fore-paws and started for me, and I legged it for dear life for the house, and as I went over the door step into the house, I heard it growl or snarl as it went past. I just looked out the window and saw it going into the orchard towards the woods." We venture to state that that boy will know a bear the next time he sees one. In that vicinity three were seen together a few days before, and one farmer has lost recently several sheep evidently killed by a bear or bears.

A CHECKERED LIFE. Samuel Witham died in Belfast, Sunday last, aged 68 years. A sailor who visited every part of the inhabited globe, his life was as checkered as is the usual lot of those who seek their fortunes on the deep. More than forty years ago, while on board a merchant vessel at Montevideo, one of those frequent South American revolutions broke out. Witham and five others of the crew were kidnapped, or pressed, as the term is, into the Brazilian navy, where he served two years and four months without pay. At one time he ships of the enemy drove the Brazilian vessels, on board one of which was Witham, up the Parana river, hundreds of miles into the interior, until the ships took bottom. Fighting until fighting was useless, those who were not killed escaped to the shore and blew up their vessels. They were now without provisions or clothing, hundreds of miles from the sea coast, and their sufferings were great. On the march back, which occupied months, their only food was the meat of wild cattle, roasted over the camp-fire. Witham and one other American afterwards escaped, got on board an American frigate lying at Montevideo, and served three years. Arriving at New York, after an absence of six years, his wife and family, undoubtedly thinking him dead, had gone to parts unknown, and he never again saw them. He afterwards learned of his wife's death. He served twelve years in the American navy, all through the Mexican war, and at the battle of Vera Cruz was wounded by a splinter from a shattered mast, striking him in the face. Latterly he has worked as a rigger and sail maker, in Belfast, where he leaves a widow. Mr. Witham was a native of Northport.

JANE, TERRANCE AND THE TELEPHONE.

By request we print the following article written for the Unitarian Reading Club, at Ellsworth:

Och Norah McArty, its the orful time I've been havin', an' me two ears are aikin like, an me heart is batin' that hand, yees cud here it in Saddermeshay; all along wid the tings I've been aither learnin, and the impertionts of that old thafe of a feller, down there at Hancock Hall.

An' sure Norah, its glad I am you wasn't there to see the disgrace of me, before all the folks, an Mike Brady intil the bargain.

If you'll be patient a minnit, till me brains get turned over in the right place, for they've been oopsit intirely, I'll thry to relate my experience.

Och moosha! but its mad I am, from the croon o' me head, to tip end of me big toe, and no way of rivinge possible.

Wal thin, I'll tell yees about it: I heard the masther, telling the mistriss, about the tiliphone coomin' to Hancock Hall, to exhibit, along wid a man from Bostoin, an how that yees cud talk wid one, miles and mileses a way.

I was waitin' on the table for dinner, an' kipt hangin' roond, makin' excuses to git intil the room often, pretindin' to forgit this thing, an' that thing so as to hear all about it, for wasn't there Tim Maloney in coonty Cork Ireland, that I luved, an' that promised to coom over to Amerikay to marry me, two Easters gone; an' who I cudent write to for the rayson I cudent write to any one, not knowin' how to make the letthers.

So says I to meself—arrah! but that's the way I'll hear from Tim. I'll go to Hancock Hall, an' I spake to him, an' he'll spake back to me. An' I made up my mind, I'd tell him if he didn't coom soon to Amerikay to marry me, I'd marry Mike Brady, that was that wild aither me, that I cudent be goin' down strate, or to church but he'd be coomin' home wid me, an' coatin' me all the time, to be the darlin' of his heart.

Now Norah, that wasn't the rual truth at all, at all, for Mike hasn't axed me yit, boot I've been expectin' that he'd do it for mony a day. I tort 'twould frighten Tim an' bring him over in a hoorry. So aither dinner, I made bowld to ax the mistriss, how mooch it would be to go to see the tiliphone, an' cud any one go that wud be wishin' it; she said for twenty-five cints any one cud go, an' for fifty cints, yees cud talk at it. Sez I to meyself, och, thin, Tim is worth the fifty cints, an' I'll do it; but I'll be sure not to let the mistriss know what I'd be aither doing.

Aither the supper was over an I'd shticked up the dishes, laving the dish cloths and wipers to be washed another time, tuckling away the baze sheet an' spider oontil the mornin' an' aither lettin' in all the folks of the Unitarian Rading Cloob,—bad luck to thim—I rushed oop stairs, for it was late that I was, wid all those folks coomin in, and not to stay aither, and barrin' thim coomin', I wouldn't had the disgrace, for 'twas all for their bein' so late. But I will go on for I know you must be anxious to hear the rist of the shtory. As I was saying I rushed oop stairs clapped on my new red cashmere dress, combed my hair wid the bangs an' the Frinch twist, that is so becoming to me, an' as I knew the mistriss cudent be goin' out on account of the cloob bein' there, I tort 'twould be no harrm to borry her blk, vilvit bunnit, wid the clary de lung fringe on it an' the luvely flowers, an' feathers, that made me look joost the beauty. For sez I to meself, Mike will be there, an' he'll be lookin' at me whin I'm talkin' to the tiliphone, for if I

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and regular return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, which can be seen at the office (since a window,) when orders for lots of not less than 500.
Persons desiring the return of a letter to the writer, if not found within thirty days, or less, will be supplied with the writer's name, post office and state, upon the left end of the envelope, on the payment of 1 cent.
As the public are earnestly recommended to use stamped envelopes with printed return request, the expense is less, and letters thus so printed do not deliver to the wrong addressed or return to the writer free of charge.
Envelopes of above furnished at $2 50 per thousand.

Stamps cut from Stamped Envelopes cannot be used to prepay postage. The use of such stamps is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars. Stamped Envelopes, spoiled in directing, are redeemed at this office.
